CROMOGEI

“Light therapy for a range of skin abnormalities”

What does it do?

Colour is feeling, perception and information but first and foremost it is light, i.e. radiant energy, that travels in space in the form of electromagnetic waves of varying size, intensity and frequency.

These varying waves produce different colours throughout the visible spectrum and exert different energetic actions that are able to stimulate or slowdown various metabolic processes.

By using the right combination of colours exceptional results can be achieved when treating cellulite, acne, stretch marks, slack skin and more.

How does it work?

Cromogeji can produce the entire visible spectrum of light and combined with circular or scanning motions and the precise focusing of the lens allows the area to be treated using exactly the right energetic power in the best possible manner.

Applying the capabilities of this revolutionary high-tech machine with all its wonderful capabilities exploits the healing power of light and the beneficial effects it can have on the tissues of the skin. The effects of the treatments are immediately noticeable after just one short session.
